

UK SCHOOL GAMES 2016

England Men's Team Results

The England Men's Team of Joe Cemlyn-Jones, Adam Tobin, Jack Chamberlin, Jake Jarman, Euan Cox and Sam Mostowfi were in great spirits throughout the event. Podium training was the first time the Team had come together, so the couple of hours spent here were extremely useful for all. Saturday saw the Team Competition with England fielding a very young Team. They all knew that a very experienced Scottish Team had come to try and take the title of UK School Games Champions away from England.

The Team had a good start to the Team Final going up first on Rings. All routines were clean with solid scores posted. Vault was hard for the Team, as they all struggled with the Continental vault table. Again, they all produced, meaning that they went to P.Bars feeling confident. This, however, was the worst apparatus for the England Team, carrying falls which did not help them with their overall target of regaining the title of Team Champions. It was important that the boys stepped up and delivered on High bar, which they all did. This gave them a little breathing space above the other home nations. England's Floor performances were fantastic, which again extended their lead. The last apparatus being Pommel was always going to be tricky. However, the boys held their nerve and post good clean scores.

England were crowned the Team Champions again, posting a huge lead over the nearest home nation.

Sunday saw the boys take part in the Apparatus Finals. England had gymnasts on each piece and took medals with Joe Cemlyn-Jones taking the Gold on Pommel.

All the Team had amazing spirit and were very proud to represent England.
